

Off to camp once more

Last Updated Monday, 10 September 2007

Another Confirmation Camp, this time for the Year 9 confirmands, who summarize their experiences for us.

Off to camp once more

Year 9 confirmands get to know God and each other a little better at Cowes, Phillip Island.

As all H2Hers would know, a regular catch-up on “highs” and “lows” happens at each of the events. With this in mind, we thought we’d report on the highs and lows of the weekend.

Highs included: getting to know other Year 9 H2Hers; sand “recliners” and sketching the view from them; bacon and eggs; going to the beach; and the night hike.

All in all, everyone who went on the camp had a great time. The group got to know each other better, even if there weren’t many Bible verses memorised.

Memorable moments were: the night hike along the beach; just being on the beach playing games, taking pictures and making sand angels (Steph L and Laura); getting the TV to work (the sound at least!); Steph P’s two-tone jeans; and plunging into the ocean.

For most people, a low was work, especially memory work. Although for Andy, it was permanently wet clothes after memorably plunging himself into the ocean to collect a stray footy. Some, however, would say that Tim’s spectacular hole at the beach would have been a definite low!

by Steph Lillis, Laura Horneman,

William Brack, Tim Harms,

Michael Brown, Jarrad Linke,

Andy Miller

{moscomment}